Sample #1 - Five Easy Ways to Come Up With Good Blogging Topics

Do you ever feel like you must have written everything possible on your blog's topic? It may seem that way sometimes, but the truth is that you just need to use a little creative thinking to come up with an endless list of great topic ideas. Below are five easy ways to do that:

News headlines

No matter the subject of your blog, chances are there are a handful of headlines that would pertain to it every week. These don't have to be breaking news alerts, but rather think about new product announcements, industry news, and even slightly related news subjects. Take a few minutes to visit bigger news portals online each morning and skim through the headlines. Not just the big national headlines, but also finance, technology, entertainment, sports, and more. Do any of these stories relate to your blog's topic? Write about it!

Sample #2 - How to Make Blogging Fun

Whether you are blogging for income or personal satisfaction, you'll be more likely to stay committed if it doesn't seem like a chore. Considering the fact that your blog should be updated regularly, you may eventually reach the point where you feel like you have nothing else to share. If you're not careful, your blog may end up joining the dusty ranks of abandoned blogs that can be found all over cyberspace.

Keeping your blog alive (and having fun while you do it) doesn't have to be hard. Below are a few good ways to make sure you have fun while also creating a lively, popular blog:

Sample #3 - Strategies for Making Your Blog Sticky

Let's face it; people don't want to read boring blogs. Unfortunately, even if your blog is pretty interesting, your visitors may still end up clicking away after reading just one or two posts. Ideally you want them to stay as long as possible, sign up for your mailing list if you have one, click on your ads, buy your products or affiliate offers – or at the least keep coming back to do one or more of these things on a future visit.

One good way to help make this happen is by doing whatever you can to make your blog "sticky," which means making your blog interesting enough that it holds your visitors' attention for as long as possible.

Below are three good ways to start doing that immediately.
